

Celebrate Illinois' 5th Annual
Jane Addams Day
with Special Guest
Professor Anita Hill

Date: December 10, 2011

Time: 10 AM–Noon

Where: The Chicago Temple
77 West Washington; Chicago Loop
(corner of Clark & Washington across from Daley Plaza)

<http://chicagotemple.org/>

This program is FREE & open to the Public!

Program planned in collaboration with

AAUW-IL, Inc
American Association of University Women

IWPA
Illinois Woman's Press Association

two of the venerable organizations to which Jane Addams belonged!

Follow this link

<http://www.films42.com/feature/JAD09.asp>

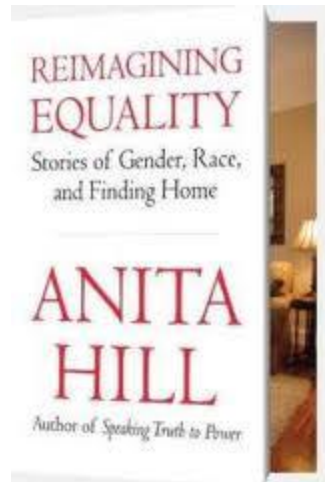

to read more about Professor Hill's participation in the documentary film

Dinner at Jane's

(now available on DVD!)

as well as Jan Lisa Huttner's award-winning presentation

The History of Jane Addams Day

We are delighted to welcome Anita Hill as she tours the country speaking about her new book

Reimagining Equality:
Stories of Gender, Race, and Finding Home

Best known for her courageous testimony during the Clarence Thomas hearings before the U.S. Senate in 1991, Professor Hill is currently Senior Advisor to the Provost and Professor of Social Policy, Law, and Women's Studies at Brandeis University.

Professor Hill's B.S. degree is from Oklahoma State University, and her J.D. degree is from Yale University.

Her numerous awards & honors include the following:

Honorary Degree, Massachusetts College of Liberal Arts (2010)

Ford Hall Forum, First Amendment Award (2008)

Honorary Degree, Lasell College (2007)

Visiting Scholar, Wellesley College, Newhouse Center for the Humanities & Wellesley Centers for Women (2007)

The Alphonse Fletcher Sr. Fellowship Award (2005)

Honorary Degree, Smith College (2003)

Honorary Degrees: Simmons College and Dillard University (2001)

Her course load includes the following:

Race and the Law

Social Justice and the Obama Administration

Law and Policy: Gender Equality in Theory and Practice

Copies of

Reimagining Equality:
Stories of Gender, Race, and Finding Home

will be available for sale on 12/10/11, and Professor Hill will personally sign books purchased onsite.

So plan your holiday shopping now ☺